STORY

How Sam Made Her Bitcoin Millions

The California Gold Rush in 1848 began when gold was found by James W. Marshall. Imagine being one of the first set of gold miners?

Meet Sam a hospital nurse. In early 2010 she discovered a new digital currency called Bitcoin; often referred to as digital gold or cryptocurrency.

She visited websites and forums run by the development community that gave away free Bitcoins.

Fast forward to 2018, and Sam's Bitcoins are worth over $1million dollars. In addition she accumulated further crypto wealth; all for FREE.

Another Decade Of Crypto Opportunities

The first decade of Bitcoin has been like the initial decade of the Internet. Remember when Yahoo was the king of the Internet?

25+ years into the Internet story, the winners from the first decade have been replaced by newer companies like Google and Facebook.

Similarly as we start to approach the end of the first decade of crypto change, further disruption and opportunities exist.

Sam provides some advice on how the average person can start to accumulate crypto wealth for FREE.

“ALL YOU NEED TO ACQUIRE CRYPTO WEALTH IS FREE TIME, HARD WORK AND SOME LUCK.”

Thousands Of Free Coins And Tokens

Everyday a new cryptocurrency COIN or TOKEN is being launched into the market by new companies. Think of this as new websites being launched in the second decade of the Internet.

How do you spot and be part of Google or Facebook when they only had a few users? Similar research principles apply to Cryptocurrencies.

The main difference is that most cryptocurrencies follow the Bitcoin model. They provide early adopters with opportunities to get free COINS or TOKENS; or earn them by completing tasks such as retweeting a message on Twitter or Instagram. While a cryptocurrency is new and adoption low, multiple opportunities exist.

What To Look Out For

- Look for projects with real products that have already been developed
- Be wary of projects that have whitepapers only; or have large pre-mined coins
- Low coin or token supply (remember gold or Bitcoin is valued high due to scarcity)
- Take social comments, followers and numbers with a pinch of salt. Be wary of FAKE NEWS and STATS.

How To Get Free Coins – SAMS TIPS

Contact the project developers and team. Any new project is looking to expand their community. Sending them a message allows two tests to be performed:

- Are they active and receptive to interaction; is communication sentiment positive or negative?
- Opportunity to ask if they have additional rewards on offer that you can apply for. For example if you belong to a local yoga class with 20 people. If you all join and socialise their product on your Facebook account, what would the reward be? If you do not ask you will never know.

“Collecting coins and tokens can be addictive! Creating a tracking spreadsheet or journal is recommended. Good organisation will help you earn more.”

How To Turn Coins To Local Currency

Digital currency is the new money of the future. However you may want to turn your coins into your local currency say USD, GBP, EUR etc. This can be done via a cryptocurrency exchange; the coins that you have collected in your digital wallets can be sold and in return you get local currency.

Important Notes for Exchanges

- There is a wide range of cryptocurrency exchanges available and ever evolving
- Each coin may be listed on different exchange(s)
- Details can often be found on the respective coin or token company website
- Always research exchanges (like cryptocurrencies most are new and still unregulated).

For further exchange, market and legal advice please seek professional financial advice in your jurisdiction.

Sam's Final Thoughts – BE DEFENSIVE

The world of cryptocurrency is new and complicated. Most of it is unregulated. There are good projects and bad projects. Unfortunately there are crypto scams that you need to watch out for. Some examples are:

- YOU send money → Project promised to increase money → Project runs away with money → YOU lose
- Project creates new coin → Project takes a large set of coins for themselves → Project lists coin on exchange → Project dump coins → Project abandoned → YOU lose.

For this reason always do your own research. Never send money. Accumulate coins and tokens for free only. This is a defensive approach to getting involved in cryptocurrencies.
